DOWNSTREAM ENERGY – WHAT DOES IT COVER?

Experience counts when it comes to high-risk exposures. With multi-billion dollar investments happening across the globe in new and expanding petrochemical complexes, Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) plants, refineries, natural gas and fertiliser plants along with associated pipelines for these assets, insurance expertise in these specialised areas are critical.

Risks are amplified by increased capital expenditure, regulatory pressures and political risks. Recent large losses have highlighted the need for effective insurance coverage. JLT has significant downstream energy resource positioned worldwide to cover the needs and requirements of clients with a range of broking services available. The team had in-depth knowledge backed by engineers working with you to give you honest and informed risk management advice and transactional services for all your operational facilities.

SIZE DOESN'T MATTER

Covering all types of downstream and midstream operational energy business:

- Petrochemicals
- Refineries
- LNG Plants and terminals
- Gas processing facilities
- A broad spectrum of Fertiliser plants
- Oil and Gas Pipelines
- Tank farms and terminals

We work closely with our specialist teams who focus on cargo/transit, D&O, political risks/trade risks and terrorism cover to provide the expertise needed in these areas.

We will tailor risks to single site assets through to complex global portfolios working with international and national oil companies.

WHAT'S DIFFERENT?

Many of the world leading oil, gas and petrochemical markets look to us to service their insurance requirements.

Our team's worldwide presence and relationships with markets in London in Europe and in the regions will create a competitive and bespoke solution for your requirements on property and casualty insurances.

We have a truly global approach to marketing. With a worldwide retail network we work in harmony with our local teams to focus on all levels of service needed to assist you and the business.

Our dedicated engineering team provide technical support and first class survey/underwriting reports to enable communication and advice on best practice approaches and risk improvements with their international wide ranging knowledge.

The casualty/liability team utilise global markets to respond to the varied and complex pollution risks associated in the energy industry. We offer expertise in other speciality areas including directors & officers, political, terrorism and trade credit cover.

Further support services include captive management advice, benchmarking, training, consulting on valuations, engineering and risk analysis and management.

We have a dedicated energy claims team who work alongside the service team to provide an outstanding service in the event of a claim, teamwork is important to us.

Construction and project insurance is a key area for many of our clients. We provide comprehensive construction cover for all types of projects, managing exposures and advising on appropriate cover for these specialist projects.

ENGINEERING

We like to give our clients options, we have a growing dedicated team of experienced chemical engineers both in house and a range of independent engineers at our clients disposal should they choose independent advice. All our engineers have experience from industry. They have a worldwide remit which means they can realistically benchmark, offer loss prevention advice and offer best practice solutions based on global experience. We offer specialist business interruption reports and have specialists who operate within the group to provide this service.
